Mountain A Medium Bodied Dry Red

---

The Mountain Range wines pay homage to Maurice O'Shea's talent as a master blender. He had an astounding ability to make and recognise small unique parcels. Depending on what style they were, light bodied, medium bodied or full bodied, O'Shea gave each of them different names: Mountain C, Mountain A and Mountain D.

Tasting Notes

Intense red fruits of raspberry, mulberry and blueberry all combine with classic Rosehill violet notes and some subtle spice from maturation in wood. Beautiful red fruits drive the length of the palate with intensity and focus. Some lovely supporting oak provides a subtle backbone with wonderful natural acidity giving the elegance.

Drinking Window

Balanced and approachable now, this wine will continue to mature for over 45 years.
